Mr Paul Weeks

Senior Lecturer, Southern Cross University, Australia

Paul Weeks joined Southern Cross University (SCU) School of Tourism and Hospitality Management in 1991 as lecturer in hospitality management after 20 years managerial experience in hotel, motel and food service organisations, before moving to The Hotel School Sydney (THSS) in 2000. After 15 years as Director of Academic Studies at THSS, Paul moved back to the main SCU campus in the new School of Business and Tourism as undergraduate and postgraduate tourism and hospitality Course Coordinator.

Paul's previous and current experience includes instructional design for subjects offered through the School's distance education programs, development of curricula across a range of discipline areas, lecturing in management, services management and information technology. Paul has also co-authored two Australian 'hospitality' industry texts: Club Management, and Managing Convention Businesses.

Paul's research interests include IT in hospitality; education; history of hotels; convention services, and club management.

Paul received an inaugural Vice Chancellor's award for Teaching Excellence, two subsequent VC's Teaching Awards and the 2017 SCU Engagement Award for Engaged Learning.
