i-graduate Workshop: Measuring the Student Experience

Mr Nick Pidgeon

Head of Surveys & Benchmarking, i-graduate, United Kingdom

Nick is a highly experienced consultant with a track record of successful project management in the education sector. He has spent 17 years (nearly his entire career!) specialising in data driven consultancy designed to help higher education institutions improve the student experience and their operational finances. At the heart of this work lies Nick's ability to deliver engaging presentations and workshops to translate data into clear messages.

Nick is Head of Surveys & Benchmarking at i-graduate; the world leader in student feedback surveys to the education sector. He has strategic, operational and budgetary responsibility for the i-graduate business within i-graduate's parent company, Tribal Group. The i-graduate team's work is characterised by the need to use complex data to quickly understand a higher education institution and make credible, valuable recommendations for improvement.

Outside of work Nick will be found keeping his two young daughters entertained or running long distances to clear his head!
