Panel 5: Sustainability is more than environmental management – promoting social development in TH&E education

Mr Donald Sloan

Chair and Founder, Oxford Cultural Collective, United Kingdom

Donald Sloan is Chair and Founder of the Oxford Cultural Collective, an educational body which pursues a positive social and cultural agenda. Specialising in hospitality and gastronomy, the Collective works with partner universities, internationally, to establish new educational institutes; stages public events which address current issues; and provides scholarships to support students and young hospitality professionals. From 2003 to 2017 Donald was Head of the Oxford School of Hospitality Management at Oxford Brookes University. He is a Trustee of the Jane Grigson Trust, a Fellow of the Institute of Hospitality, an Honorary Fellow of the Council for Hospitality Management Education and he holds a MBA in Higher Education Management from University College London.
